

Abstract

The invention relates to a device for the exact measurement of gases with a 5 plurality of sensors which are evaluated by means of a microcontroller so that high accuracy of measurement is obtained independently of the environmental conditions, which are also measured.